

JOB OPENING

War Child Holland has been working with Children and communities in Southern/South Sudan for 17 years since 1998, and established a South Sudan Country Office upon independence in 2011. War Child's Child protection, psychosocial support and education activities in South Sudan focus on supporting the resilience of children and those responsible for their care during and after conflict and reinforcing community-based child protection mechanisms aimed at preventing rights violations, with the active and meaningful participation of children. In recent years, War Child has implemented various child protection and education projects which included (a) establishing child friendly and safe learning spaces (b) Supporting youth and families in improving their livelihood and income-generating potential through capacity building activities; (c) increasing access to education, particularly the participation of girls by addressing barriers to education and promoting behavioral change amongst families and communities; and (d) supporting teacher training and development through a tablet-based learning methodology. As of June 2017, War Child's geographical scope includes former Upper Nile, Central Equatoria and Jonglei States

War Child Holland's programme in South Sudan is anchored on a rights-based and community development approach, War Child Holland utilizes participatory methodologies with the overarching goal of empowering communities and individuals as 'change agents' capitalizing on their own inherent capacity and strength.

General Purpose of the role

The Psychosocial Support Field Trainer ensures that War Child Holland project staff, team members and/or partners have sufficient knowledge and skills in complying with quality standards in the delivery of War Child Holland's core child protection and psychosocial services including WCH's DEALS/life skills methodology for children and parents and other life skills approaches and PSS service methods for children, caregivers and community at large. This responsibility includes developing and carrying out capacity building programmes in PSS methodology, including training, coaching, mentoring and supervision of local partners within the Country.

While the Psychosocial Support Field Trainer's primary responsibility is building capacities to deliver PSS services, ensures, as/when necessary, that project staff, team members and/or partners develop or strengthen their capacity in child protection and psychosocial support either through direct training interventions or coordinating training support for staff and partners. The Psychosocial Support Field Trainer ensures that project staff, team members and/or partners are knowledgeable and compliant with international standards such as the Core Humanitarian Standards, Minimum Standards in Child Protection, IASC Standard in MHPSS, WCH Child Safety/Safeguarding Policy, Sphere Standards and Code of Conduct for ICRC and NGO workers, and other related body of standards.

At the programme and project levels, the Psychosocial Support Field Trainer ensures the psychosocial support components are appropriately designed and implemented in a quality and timely manner and in support of the overall country programme objectives. This includes proactively advising and providing technical assistance to local partners and the project teams, in designing and implementing a monitoring, reporting and evaluation system that effectively collects and analysis data and information necessary for determining timeliness and effectiveness of psychosocial support activities, outputs and outcomes. The PSS Field Trainer also supports the programme and project teams in developing logic models (logframe, ToC or RBM, depending on the requirement), that appropriately reflects and is responsive of the psychosocial support objectives of the project in particular, and the country programme in general.

The PSS Field Trainer is War Child Holland's representative to PSS Working Group. Upon request and on an exceptional basis, the PSS Field Trainer might be asked to represent War Child Holland in other cluster or network groups.

From time to time and especially in rapid emergency response, the PSS Field Trainer might be requested to join Rapid Response or Assessment Teams or Mobile Teams that require her/his PSS expertise. These teams are usually carried out with other partners and carried out in highly insecure and volatile locations.

Position in the organisation

The PSS Field Trainer reports directly to the Regional Program Manager and is a member of the Field Programme Unit and advises the same on matters related to the provision of War Child Holland's core interventions—particularly PSS and its integration into the overall community development and rights-based approach, as well as issues on bottle necks in programme, logistics, finance, administration, human resources and/or operations that significantly affect service delivery.

The PSS Field Trainer is based at Juba, South Sudan, with 80 % travel to project partners/ sites/communities in and around the Country.
