Who We Are

The ALIGHT in South Sudan is a non-profit, non-sectarian, international humanitarian organization duly registered in South Sudan providing Protection services, WASH, Health/Nutrition skill transfer, income generating projects and other related services to those affected by war or conflict and to displaced communities. ALIGHT does respond to natural disasters when it has a presence and capacity in the region of the occurrence. ALIGHT provides assistance to more than one million refugees, displaced persons, returnees, and host communities where possible. Internationally, most of the ALIGHT beneficiaries are women and children in Europe, Africa, and Southeast Asia.

ALIGHT receives support from individuals, corporations and foundations, and grants from the US government and United Nations agencies. ALIGHT was organized in 1978 by Neal Ball to provide resettlement assistance for Indochinese refugees. With changing world events, ALIGHT'S mission evolved to focus on emergency response, health care and training assistance for some of the neediest people in the world. ALIGHT believes that lasting solutions to the world's refugee problems require the direct participation of the local populations in the country affected by crises. ALIGHT links emergency health care assistance with self-help training, enabling refugees to become more self-reliant so they may educate others. Training in basic primary health care helps curb the tremendous number of deaths due to unclean water, poor sanitation, and preventable diseases for which immunizations or other preventive methods exist. ALIGHT'S methodology is to work on both sides of a border or situation as early as possible to help rehabilitate the community of return and link the level of care and services to those which can be taught/learned/practiced in the home communities. ALIGHT services displaced persons for the long term and helps them voluntarily return home with ALIGHT programs that link into longer-term development/sustainable projects. 1.3 ALIGHT'S Vision Every person who participates in an ALIGHT supported program will have a better chance to take control of their life and achieve self-sufficiency.
