Organisation Background

Founded in 2011, the International NGO Safety Organisation (INSO) is a Dutch foundation that supports the operations of other NGOs through coordination platforms that improve the safety of aid workers and access to difficult to reach areas. INSO provides registered NGOs with a range of free services including training on first aid, personal safety and critical incident management; information on the local context and advice on humanitarian access; and support to the management of critical incidents affecting aid workers.

INSO services help NGOs with their day-to-day risk management responsibilities and improve their overall situational awareness to support evidence-based humanitarian access decisions. The organisation has grown from innovative start-up to become a globally recognized charity and a valuable component of the humanitarian safety coordination system. Today, INSO provides daily support to more than 850 NGOs in twelve of the world's most insecure countries and has earned a strong reputation for performance, principles, and professionalism.

INSO South Sudan Country Office

INSO South Sudan started operations in early 2018. It has grown rapidly, registering over 200 local and international NGOs and rolling out a wide range of services, including real time incident tracking, analytical reporting, area and risk assessments, and tailored advice and support. INSO South Sudan has also established itself as a leading training platform for NGOs in South Sudan, delivering over 35 training courses on first aid, risk management, and fire safety to more than 700 NGO staff members.
