Background & Rationale:

South Sudan is a country with a weak and fragile protective environment, making vulnerable populations such as women and children susceptible to abuse, neglect, deprivation, and exploitation. The program will recruit Child Protection Officers who will respond to quick onset emergencies, implement evidence-based methodologies to change social norms, providing case management, mental health and psychosocial support services to traumatised children, and engaging in policy and legislative enhancements to build durable child protection systems. Ultimately, the program aims to move beyond the evils of war and violent conflict towards a South Sudan that protects every vulnerable group.

Scope of Work:
